STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND THE CASE

Petitioner Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida, Inc. sued the Respondent City of Miami (as well as the other Respondents) to recover benefits it paid to Rafael Alfonso, its insured. (R. 1-5.) The City filed a motion to dismiss (R. 9-12) which was granted (R. 15). The Third District Court of Appeal affirmed in view of its decision in Blue Cross & Blue Shield v. Ryder Truck Rental, Inc., 472 So.2d 1373 (Fla. 3d DCA 1985), which is now under review by this Court.

Rafael Alfonso was injured in an automobile accident involving a City vehicle as well as others. Alfonso incurred medical bills which Blue Cross paid pursuant to its contract with Alfonso's employer. Blue Cross then sued the City of Miami (as well as the other respondents) for reimbursement of its medical expenses based on a theory of indemnification.

ARGUMENT

The Respondent City of Miami adopts the argument of the Respondents in Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida, Inc. v. Ryder Truck Rental, Inc., et al., Case No. 67,591, with the following additional comments:

Respondents' answer brief in the Ryder case observed that Sec. 627.7372, Fla.Stat. (1985) could be considered unfair to Blue Cross vis-a-vis other collateral payors in none-automobile tort cases. Respondents noted that any such disparity in treatment could theoretically be cured by amendments to the Insurer's policy, or by the Florida Legislature.

The 1986 Tort Reform and Insurance Act, Chapter 86-160, Laws of Florida (1986), largely cures that element of unfairness. Chapter 86-160, Section 55, Laws of Florida (1986) created Section 768.76 to provide that in any tort action (whether auto-related or not), "There shall be no reduction for collateral sources for which a subrogation right exists." The above provision took effect July 1, 1986, and therefore the particular disparity noted by the Respondents in Ryder should not continue to be a problem. It is therefore even less appropriate for the Florida Supreme Court to attempt to judicially intervene in such legislative judgments which have, indeed, been only recently addressed by the Legislature.

L

With the exception of the above supplemental comments, Respondent City of Miami adopts as its answer brief in this case the Respondents' answer brief on the merits in Blue Cross and Blue
