REPLY TO COMPLAINANT'S ANSWER

Neither a default of a party in a proceeding nor a court order declaring a "truth" will change the existence and content of documents. The Florida Bar, through its agents, has such documents that verify information contrary to its stated position and representations by its Counsel to this Court.

Simply repeating something again will not make it true. Proof of the facts in dispute is a simple matter. Documents will speak for themselves. Whether in a de novo hearing before a referee in this matter, subsequent disciplinary hearing of another attorney, or by another process, the misrepresentations will be corrected. Of the three options, the new hearing, provides all concerned with the best method of resolving the disputes.

For the reasons summarized above, Respondent requests an opportunity to have a hearing with a referee, a review of the Report of the Referee, and/or such other relief the Court may deem appropriate.
